

Personal Report

By Huascar Andres Bedregal Salinas Vega

Internship location: Zürich

Internship Firma: BACHEMA AG

I was delighted to get a one year internship in Switzerland by the BACHEMA AG close to Zürich; a Chemical Laboratory specialized on water, soils and biological analyses. After doing my Bachelor on chemistry I was able to acquire more technical experience on analytics field but also enjoy beautiful places.

1 Axalp (Photo by H. Bedregal)

During my internship I had many interesting things seen, but maybe the most interesting things were the Zahnradbahn in Pilatus, very impressive machinery to climb such a steep mountain, at the top a nice military bunker and a beautiful view. The Formula E race took place in Zürich at the time I was there. But of course the Alps are quite impressive too and I was able to visit many other places and cities.

2 Pilatus Zahnradbahn (Photo by H. Bedregal)

The most remarkable thing on my work was that everything is at disposition, nothing needs to be improvised, and any help will be provided without complications, and of course any suggestion will be considered in a reasonable and logical way.

3 Prague (Photo by H. Bedregal)

The most difficult part in Switzerland was to understand their dialect, but after a couple of weeks I was finally able to understand some things.

One of the most interesting things of doing this internship with IAESTE was the facility to apply and all the help provided by the organization, even the activities organized by the local committee are a very nice way to help the people to take contact with other interns and make some friends.

4 Obersalzberg (Photo by H. Bedregal)